'Public Apathy Leads to Increased Crime'

A veteran police officer yesterday blamed public apathy towards violations as the major reason behind the nation's mounting crime rate.

Daly City Police Chief Roland A. Petrocchi, said the average citizens desire to look the other way was considered by many police officers to be the biggest problem facing law enforcement today.

But in the face of this apathy, today's law enforcement officer has moulded himself into a more devoted public servant, Petrocchi said.

"An officer today is sharper than a few years ago, because his parents are sharper," Petrocchi pointed out. "We here insist on our new officers having at least two years of college."

He said the modern policeman was far better trained than his counterpart of a decade ago, to cope with the types of crimes encountered nowadays.

A noticeable factor in the breakdown of respect for law enforcement is the parent-child relationship, according to Petrocchi. His outlook on the subject is supported by other Peninsula police officers.

"Years ago, a policeman that caught a kid breaking the law turned him over to the parents. The father would usually assure us he could handle the situation and it wouldn't happen again. A child respected — even feared — what would happen to him at the hands of his parents.

"Today, the parents come into the station and argue the child is right, and we are wrong — regardless of the nature or magnitude of the incident," Petrocchi said.

One way to combat this turn of events, Petroccni feels, is to put the responsibility for a youth's actions back where they belong — with the parents.

"Perhaps by publishing the names of parents of a child involved in certain crimes will wake them up," he said.

Petrocchi said the public could expect even greater increases in crime, "if this complete disrespect for all authority continues."

Although Daly City's neighbor — San Francisco — has reported an increase in crime this year, Petrocchi said his city's crime rate has dropped, overall.

Largest single increase in Daly City's offenses reported was armed robbery — from seven last year to 22 so far this year.

And while armed robberies and incidents of aggravated assualt showed notable increase (assualt from 10 to 18), most dramatic drop was in auto accessory thefts — from 114 down to 63 fro the same period.

Total offenses reported to date in Daly City was 1,207, compared to 1,252 during the same period last year.

"We are actually running pretty good this year," Petrocchi said, indicating police were making greater effort to patrol areas, which have shown a higher incidence of crime.

"By giving these areas more attention, we feel offenses will continue to be held down," Petrocchi said.

Petrocchi feels narcotics "has something to do with many crimes" and police have focused their attention on this subject for some time.

"There were 61 reported narcotic incidents last year. So far this year, the figure is 32," he said.

Daly City is ten men short on its police force.

"We've been trying to fill these vacancies for several months. Salary, working conditions and even public attitudes have figured in the difficulties in filling these vacancies," the 20-year veteran said.

Area Refuse Disposal Big Business, Grows

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Disposing of items that people no longer want is big business in the Bay Area — more than $5 million worth of business in 1966 to be exact.

And this business of taking care of other people's waste is growing at a fantastic rate each year.

Leonard Stefanelli, president of the Sunset Scavenger and Golden Gate Disposal companies, points out that by the year 2000 San Francisco and the North Peninsula area will be throwing away more than 2,500 tons of refuse daily.

The problem of collecting this refuse has been minimized thanks to the use of closed compactor trucks, instead of open refuse vehicles.

The compactors can hold three times the amount of the old trucks.

However, the problem of where to deposit his refuse is growing daily, this primarily due to the increasing lack of suitable dump sites.

"I only wish I could dispose of refuse as efficently as we collect it," Stefanelli once remarked to a group of newsmen during the height of the controversy over use of the Sierra Point dump site in Brisbane.

While Brisbane's citizens marched to the polls some two years ago and passed a referendum ordinance against further dumping inside the city limits, Stefanelli credited that small city with imposing strict laws which have made his operation a model in the nation.

"For every tone of refuse dumped at Sierra Point we have to cover it with a ton of clean earth fill," Stefanelli said.

"And because of the strict burning regulations in Brisbane we spray more than 1,000 gallons of water on the 'open face' of the dump every night after shutting down our operations," Stefanelli said.

The watering down is credited with keeping fires in check at the dump. Only a handful of fires have been reported at the "old dump" on the west side of Bayshore Freeway and the "new dump" at Sierra Point. Stefanelli said there was evidence at least two of these fires were "pure cases of arson."

The earth fill used for cover is scraped from a nearby hill and trucked to the 105-acre dump site. A pump has been installed at one end of the site to keep the area "dry" from sea water seepage.

Contrary to what opponents of the dump site claim, there are no seagulls scattering garbage around the neighborhood and there are no offensive odors, Stefanelli claims.

The Sanitary Land Fill Company, responsible for disposing of refuse collected by Stefanelli's two companies, has installed a recording designed to scare away seagulls along with an air cannon which gives off a loud "boom" periodically during the day. Compacting and earth cover take care of the smell, a dump spokesman said.

According to Stefanelli, the offensive odor which many motorists encounter driving down the Bayshore Freeway comes from a sewerage overflow pipe on the Guadalupe Canal — not from the dump.

Opponents of the dump, however, have been battling the scavengers for the past two years — since passage of a special election ordinance cancelling out previous contracts between the city of Brisbane and the scavengers. The issue has bounced around in the courts for some time and recently a group of pro-garbage Brisbane residents succeeded in having yet another election to see whether it should be enacted.

After a series of meetings with interested Brisbane residents, the scavengers agreed to up the annual dumping ante to $100,000. Previously it was $30,000 per year.

Meanwhile, in the face of possible upsets in the forthcoming elections and court battles, the youthful Stefanelli is forging ahead with plans to expand his operations and construct a revolutionary incinerator plant, either near Brisbane or at Butchertown adjacent to an already existing PG&E plant.

The proposed incinerator will be designed to not only handle all of San Francisco's daily tonnage of refuse, but

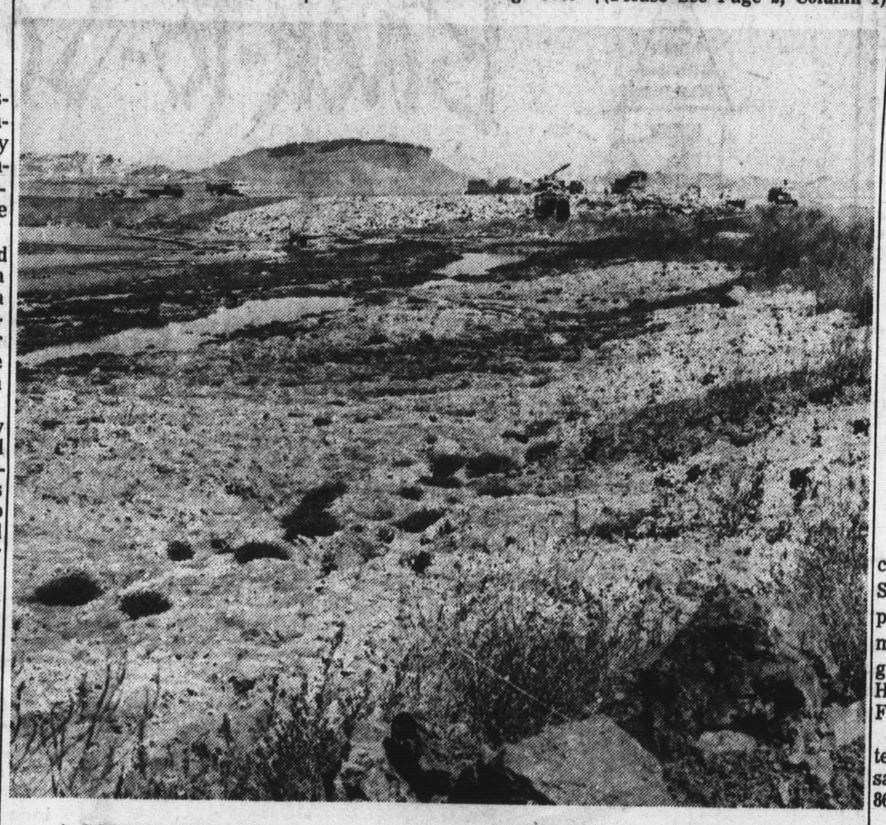
(Please See Page 2, Column 1)



A CONSTANT FLOW of refuse trucks shuttle between city collection points and the huge Sierra Point garbage dump in Brisbane. More than 1,400 tons of refuse is dumped at the site daily. For every ton of refuse, a ton of clean earth fill scrapped from a nearby hill is used for cover at the 105-acre site.

VICTOR AND ARLENE HALL are among the growing number of North Peninsula residents who spend their leisure time on a boat at the Oyster Point Marina. The Halls, who live in South San Francisco, are remodeling a sloop they purchased last winter at a tax auction.

The Oyster Point Marina Growing By Leaps, Bounds

By DON GRIERSON

More than 250 boaters now call the Oyster Point Marina in South San Francisco "home port," and business at the $1 million city-owned facility is growing by leaps and bounds, Harbor Superintendent Don Fagundes reported this week.

"We have 210 boats in the water now," the superintendent said. "Our berthing capacity is 86."

Another 50 boats are kept in dry storage at the marina in a fenced-in "corral" area adjacent to the small boat luanching ramps.

"Our landscaping project is well under way," Fagundes said, "and things are beginning to move on commercial development."

A restaurant, yacht brokerage office and other shop will be built along the waterfront in the near future, the superintendent said, and the city is working on plans for a nine-hole golf course, a small park, and a picnic area at the marina.

A building to house the Oyster Point Yacht Club will also be constructed in the near future, according to the harbor superintendent.

The club, with 140 members, has taken top honors in the Bay Yacht Season Opening Day Parade the past two years, and Oyster Point sailors are among the most competitive in the area.

A junior auxiliary club was formed recently, and members are offering instruction for youngsters in El Toros class sailing.

Lloyd Wingert is club commodore.

Completed in 1963, the marina was constructed with the aid of a $570,000 Small Craft Harbors Loan from the federal government.

It is located on a filled area which was once a dump site.

With a nine-foot channel at mean low tide, the harbor has berthing accomodations for vessels up to 45 feet in length.

Each of the piers is equipped with vapor lighting, and each berth has an individual water and electricity outlet.

Berthing rates run from $18 to $40 per month per boat, and revenue from this source, along with oil and gasoline sales, is sufficient to support the marina operations.

"The facilities are being paid for by the users," Fagundes daid. "Taxpayers do not bear the costs."

One of the outstanding features of the Oyster Point Marina is security.

"We have practically eliminated vandalism through the use of locked gates, adequate lighting and surveilance," the superintendent said.

Each pier is protected by a locked gate, and boat owners are issued a registered key to their pier.

"Even with a key, no one is allowed on the piers without a note or a telephone call from the boat owner," he said.

The marina is administered and operated by a separate department, consisting of Fagundes and his assistant, George Filippo, and one maintenance man, and is not under recreation department, as in most cities.

The business office at the marina is open seven days a week.

Labor Day Toll Is Light

San Mateo County escaped without a traffic fatality during the holiday weekend, and only a comparatively few injury mishaps were reported by the Highway Patrol.

One of the accidents occurred at 3:45 a.m. Tuesday, as a south-bound car driven by a former San Mateo man smashed into a steel support pillar on the Bayshore Freeway at the Peninsula Avenue overpass in San Mateo.

Although his car was virtually demolished, the driver, Donald James Cox, 30, a Salinas barber, escaped with multiple cuts and bruises. He was admitted to Mills Memorial Hospital and was reported in satisfactory condition.

Highway Patrolman Edward Laine said that Cox, who formerly resided on Sixteenth Avenue in San Mateo before moving to Salinas a year ago, apparently fell asleep at the wheel. After crashing into the pillar, the car rolled over back into the freeway, the officer reported.

A Redwood City couple were injured at 8:30 p.m. Monday when their car plunged 130 feet down an embankment on Skyline Boulevard about a half-mile north of Ralston Avenue, patrolmen said.

Football Contest Due

The Times-Post annual football contest starts next week. It will continue for ten weeks of the current football season.

A total of $500 in cash prizes will be awarded over the period of the contest.

Each Wednesday in the Post and each Tuesday and Wednesday in The Times, an entry form will appear, listing 15 grid games.

Contestants will pick the winner of each game, and for tie-breaking purposes, the net rushing and passing yardage they estimate that the San Francisco 49ers will make the coming weekend.

A perfect score winner, opening week, will win a $50 cash prize. In the event no contestant has a perfect score, the top contestant will be awarded two tickets to the Stanford-California Big Game.

Each week, an additional $50

S.S.F. Asks 1920 Terms Be Dropped

It has been a long time since anybody asked directions to an "automobile court" in South San Francisco, and the number of private detectives seeking "professional office" permits is definitely on the decrease.

City Planner Danile Pass will point out these facts next week in a proposal to "modernize and clarify" definitions incorporated in the city's zoning ordinance.

Pass and planning consultant Neal Martin said many of the zoning ordinance definitions are "vintage 1920," and are no longer applicable.

"Such terms as 'automobile court' have passed from general usage," Pass said.

He will recommend that the section dealing with automobile courts be re-titled "Motel," a term which covers tourist court, autel, motor hotel, motor lodge, auto lodge, auto hotel, motor inn and similar land use."

The modernization of definitions is the first step proposed in a general re-evaluation of the city's zoning ordinance which is being undertaken this year, the planner said.

The process will include adding to deleting, or restating several sections of the ordinance.

the North County cities as well.

No target date for the $12 million-plus incinerator has been set, but continuing pressure from civic organizations, city officials and Brisbane residents has forced the scavengers to step up their program of incineration.

Stefanelli's plant will handle "everything everybody doesn't want," and will create steam on top of that! In other words, the scavengers can make money from disposing of waste and also from "selling" steam to the PG&E company, who in turn converts the steam to electricity.

The plant will receive the material, pulverize (regardless of what it is made of and burn) to clean ash up to 2.000 tons daily during the first phase of operations.

Stefanelli said the plant, which will be attractively designed to fit in with the surrounding neighborhood, will meet all air pollution standards.

Before the construction of the plant is undertaken certain "formalities" must be ironed out between the scavengers and the city. For instance, Stefanelli wants a 20-year agreement with the city and, hopefully, the same from PG&E for sale of the steam.

"This will not be a token undertaking and we must have assurances the city will contract with us for at least a long enough period of time where it will pay for itself," Stefanelli said.

But once in operation, the plant will be the answer to all the area's garbage woes, according to Stefanelli.

"Disposing of the ash — if we no longer have the dump site — will be no great problem," Stefanelli pointed out. "We simply barge it to sea and dump it. Everything will sink to the bottom and will not float to shore."

In order to handle demolition refuse a huge "swimming pool" will be built and filled with water. A skimmer will float over the top of the water and rake off all material that is on top. Material that sinks to the bottom will be dredged out and loaded into waiting trucks.

Similar incinerators are already in use in several cities around the world, according to Stefanelli "and are accepted within the community."

Stefanelli can best be described as the "new scavenger image."

A dapper young man who was a refuse collector himself until two years ago when he was elected head of the multi-million dollar corporation.

At 33, Stefanelli heads a computer-oriented organization that will celebrate its forty-seventh birthday this month; services 92 routes throughout the city of San Francisco; has 152 pieces of equipment; and is now talking about "getting together" with cities in the North County for refuse collection.

Construction Is Tripled In San Bruno

New construction increased again last month in San Bruno, with building permits issued totalling $537,298, as compared with $208,623 in August of 1966.

Building for the first eight months of this year totaled $9,297,104, compared with $3,266,438 furing the first eight months of 1966.

Permits issued last month included 16 new homes, three new apartment buildings, one commercial building, 34 residential alterations and four commercial alterations.

Zip Cards for Daly City

Daly City and Colma residents will have an oportunity to put ZIP into their mail in late September, Postmaster Vincent P. Murphy reported today.

During the last half of September, the post office will deliver to every householder a kit of eight postal cards which can be mailed back to the post office with addresses needing ZIP codes. Each completed card will be sent to the post office which services "zipless" address and the proper code will be added before the form is returned to the sender.

No postage will be needed on these cards.

Each of the eight postal cards in the kit will contain a message encouraging the general use of ZIP code. There will be a ninth card of instructions. All will be folded together like a closed accordion. There will be perforations between each form. In addition, another separate card will be delivered along with the kit which is a reminder of the local Zip code.

Last year approximately 4,500 addresses were ZIP coded by the Daly City Post Office as part of a similar program using only one (or two) cards with spaces for as many as 13 addresses, Postmaster Murphy said.

Nationally, about eight addresses per card were returned during the 1966 project.

The unit cost of entering the code onto each card will be less than the system used in 1966 because no look-up will be necessary. Every card in the final post office will need the same code, so an inexperienced clerk will be able to simply stamp it on the card and send the form on its return journey.

On an average day, between 175 and 250 million new pieces of mail enter the postal system. It is not expected that more than 10 million of the ZIP A-LIST cards will be in the system at any one time during the peak periods of mailing. Since they will be handled essentially as ordinary postal cards, there will be no burden or dislocation of service.

"The ultimate result will be an improvement in service," Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien has said about the project. "ZIP code is the base upon which the modern postal service is being built. But, it won't work, and the modernization and efficiencies ZIP code will bring cannot go into effect until there is more widespread usage of the five-number code.

"The ZIP-A-LIST project is the most dramatic aspect of our continuing campaign to make ZIP codes readily available to the public."

Last year, approximately 17 per cent of the nation's householders returned 96 million addresses for coding. The Postmaster General reported that many postmasters had informed the department that the ZIP-A-LIST project was an important aspect in making Christmas mailers aware of the importance of using the codes on holiday mail and, as an offshoot, encouraged early mailing of gifts and cards. This resulted in the most successful holiday season in recent postal history.

Extra kits will be available at the post office.

NEARS COMPLETION — The new Woodrow Wilson Elementary School on Miriam Street in Daly City nears completion after more than one year of preparation. The modern school is being built by Edward R. Griffin of Los Altos at a cost of some $509,000. Previous bids were rejected by school trustees because they were in excess of engineering estimates. School superintendent Frank Greenwood said the new school will be open sometime in October. (Post Photo)

2 Die in Accidents Five Minutes Apart

Two North San Mateo County men were killed last week in automobile accidents occurring within five minutes of each other. Each was driving alone.

The deaths brought the number of highway fatalities in this county to 71 for the year, cmpared to 57 at this date in 1966.

The first deth came at 1:20 a.m. when Edward Thomas Reed, 51, 355 Park Plaza, Daly City, district manager for the Kelvinator Division, American Motors Corporation, in South San Francisco, hit a steel rail and sheared off a steel sign support on the Westlake Turnoff of the southbound lanes of Junipera Serra Freeway.

At 1:25 a.m., William (Bill) Terry, Jr., 32, 75 Pacific Avenue, San Bruno, was fatally injured while driving along Huntington Avenue in San Bruno with his car's headlights off. It hit two parked autos.

Reed, was pronounced dead of multiple head and chest injuries upon arrival at Mary's Help Hospital.

Highway Patrolman L. F. Rollin surmised that Reed was traveling about 65 miles an hour and overshot the Westlake exit just north of the St. Charles overpass.

In attempting to make a late turn onto the exit ramp, the car struck the curb at the north point of the divider between the ramp and the outside lane and smashed into a barrier rail, which cut the car back into the driver's compartment and launched it into the air and against a steel sign support pole, the patrolmen reported.

The second impact tore off the right front of the vehicle, including the engine and the steering gear, which was found 37-feet from the rest of the car, Rollin said.

There were "great quantities" of vehicle parts scattered over a "very large area," the officer noted.

Reed is survived by his wife, Margaret, and a daughter, Susan, of the family home. Another daughter resides in Los Angeles.

A South San Francisco woman was injured in a second accident at the scene ten minutes after the fatal mishap.

Patrolman Grant Hagen reported that Betty Ann Olivier, 24, a postal clerk, of 2905 Burren Way, South San Francisco, swerved her sports car into the inside lane after spotting a flare. A following car, driven by Rose Watkins, 58, of 657 Skyline Drive, Daly City, hit the Olivier vehicle, pushing it into the center divider.

Miss Olivier was ejected, suffering minor injuries. She was taken to Mary's Help Hospital.

The San Bruno man, Terry, died at Peninsula Hospital.

Police said a witness observed Terry's car travelling north on Huntington without lights just before it crashed into two parked vehicles near the Euclid Avenue intersection.

The car was traveling at "a normal rate of speed," the witness said, probably about 25 miles per hour.

Police said they have not determined why the victim was not using headlights.

The accident occurred about four blocks from his home.

Terry was unconcious when officers arrived. He was taken to Peninsula Hospital by Silva's Ambulance, and died of multiple injuries at 5:35 a.m.

He was employed by Millbrae Moving and Storage Company.

Republicans Are Urging Registration

A majority of announced Republican Congressional candidates rallied early Thursday morning at Republican Headquarters in San Mateo, to join in urging their party members to register to vote in the coming congressional election Nocember 14 and to aid the Republican County Central Committee in a county-wide registration drive September 9 and September 16.

First to arrive was Lawrence Arky, real estate broker and candidate from Daly City.

Arky said, "Although I am the fifth Republican candidate to announce as a candidate for congressional office, let me be the first one here to tell Republicans that it is urgent for everyone of them to be registered before the deadline on September 21.

Next to arrive was Shirley Temple Black, attired in a chic black and white suit with an ascot scarf and gold elephant pin.

"We must have Republican registration now so we will have an early and big win for the Republicans," said Mrs. Black.

Family Helpful

When asked about how her youngsters felt about their Mother's campaign trail keeping her on the go, Mrs. Black said, "They are most anxious and eager to help me, and they want to get started right away on addressing brochures, although I'm not too sure about anyone reading their writing."

Sheriff Earl B. Whitmore said, "I sincerely hope that every eligible Republican voter makes a sincere effort to get registered to vote in this special congressional election at the most critical time in our country's history."

William Draper said, "Registration is the most important responsibility of every organized Republican committee and association.To maximise the Republican vote, the time is now. I feel that it is vital that all Republican candidates and organizations work together on this urgent common goal to insure a Republican victory in the coming congressional election."

Robert Barry, who arrived too late for the picture taking, said, "No one who has complained of economic conditions or the war in Vietnam has any right to continue to do so unless he uses his precious right given him to register to vote for the election of his congressman. Republicans must register and must vote, because they are obligated to select a qualified government to steer the correct course of our country's future."

No Comment

Candidate Gregory Sims, an educator — Episcopal minister from Belmont and an instructor at the College of San Mateo, could not be reached for comment.

Paul J. McCloskey, Jr., Republican candidate, who is also an attorney, was unable to be at Republican headquarters, because of a court case.

Later, located for a comment on Republican registration, McCloskey said, "In an era where so many people throughout the world desperately seek the means to share in an electoral process, the privilege of voting is a dear one. I hope everyone in San Mateo County, who is entitled to this privilege, will be sure they have taken the minor procedural step of registrering to vote."

Catherine Eileen Cronin Bride of Gary F. Kessler

A wedding trip to Southern California followed the recent marriage of Catherine Eileen Cronin and Gary Fred Kessler. The Rev. Richard Frye officiated at the ceremony at St. Robert's Catholic Church in San Bruno.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Frank Cronin and the late Mr. Cronin. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kessler of South San Francisco.

Escorted to the altar by her brother, Frank Cronin, the bride wore a floor-length coat and dress ensemble of peau de lin. Her shoulder-length illusion veil was secured by a Dior bow edged in lace and seed pearls.

Constance Cronin was her twin sister's honor attendant, and the bridesmaids included Pamela Tucker, Mrs. Robert Curley and Mrs. John Sarles. Junior bridesmaids were Laurie and Karen Parodi, nieces of the bride. Jennifer Cronin served as flower girl, and David Parodi carried the rings, in their aunt's wedding.

Joseph Bonnici stood with Gary as best man and the guests were seated by William Passarella, Frank Dykes and Richard Zawada.

A reception at the Lazy V. Restaurant in San Bruno followed the ceremony. The couple will live in San Bruno.

The new matron is a graduate of Capuchino High School and attended the College of San Mateo. She has another sister, Mrs. Leo Parodi. The benedict graduated from South San Francisco High School and has a sister, Mrs. John Morarity of Beverly Heights, N. J.

Staggering Busy-ness

Goodness!! The amount of work some people have been doing while this lazy mortal was vacationing is staggering.

Summer is hardly over and already the members of the Riordan High School Mothers' Guild are staging a rummage sale this Saturday and they are collecting all sorts of things for the event — acceptable rummage need only meet the criterion, that it be useful—but members of the committee report that once it is collected, sorted and marked the donations acquire an aura of dignity which qualifies everything to be labeled "genuine antique."

Mrs. Vern Box is the general chairman of the sale which will be held in the Riordan gymnasium between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. on Saturday. Anyone wishing more information about the sale may call Mrs. Box at 755-0491.

The next important date on the guild's calendar will be the Fashions for All Seasons show to be held in Chaminade Hall on October 21. Mrs. Victor Dowdle and Mrs. Mario Pantera are the co-chairmen of the event, which will feature styles from H. Liebes of Westlake, according to Mrs. John Cresalia, publicity chairman.

☆ ☆ ☆

MRS. MARGARET MURPHY, formerly of Billings, Montana, and Mrs. Sue Bond who has recently moved to this area from San Diego became transfer members of Beta Sigma Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha International during a recent patio meeting held by the chapter in the home of Mrs. Joyce Thompson, says Mrs. Harriet Misterman, publicity chairman.

MEMBERS of the Pacifica Federated Women's Club are starting the fall social season with a number of activities starting with the annual membership tea on Sept. 17.

Mrs. Helen Minshew, publicity chairman, reports that Mrs. Rose Lazzaro, tea and membership committee chairman, will welcome former members and prospective members to her home on Barcelona Drive for the afternoon event.

Mrs. Dolores Fazzio, Mrs. Alice Uriarte, Mrs. Joan McClellan and Mrs. Minshew will be the hostesses.

Member Mrs. Bernetta McKay is among those eager to make the club's Christmas Bureau project a success. Members of the Federated Women's Club are collecting used and new toys for distribution at Christmas time and Mrs. McKay is rapidly becoming the unit's expert on dolls. She is busy making doll clothes and repairing dolls who are in need of "plastic surgery" before they make their debut before new owners on Christmas day. According to Mrs. Minshew, Mrs. McKay is even becoming adept at washing and setting doll hair!

YOUTH'S STRUGGLE for Identity is the theme for the fall film series being presented by the Pacifica Community Cultural Coordinating Committee, according to Mrs. Enid Emde, committee chairman.

Dr. Walcott Beatty, professor of psychology at San Francisco State, will be on hand for the first screening scheduled to be held in the Cabrillo School, Crespi Dr. and Ladera in Pacicica, at 7:30 p.m. on Sept. 15. Dr. Beatty will introduce the film, Age of Day Dreaming, and will lead the group discussion which is to follow.

Mrs. Joan Dahlstrom, publicity chairman for the committee, notes that the Sept. 15 film is the first of a series of four such events.

The Sun and the Shadow, Nobody Waved Goodbye and The Game of Love will be shown on the following three Fridays in the same location. One unit in Psychology 149 is available to those who attend and wish college credit.

The series is presented by the College of San Mateo in cooperation with the Pacifica committee and tickets for the series, costing $3, are available at the Park Beach and Recreation department office, in the Pacifica City Hall at the Dal Pac Art Gallery and from the College of San Mateo Box Office.

☆ ☆ ☆

MRS. GEORGE LaMAR rapped her newly acquired gavel for the first time as the president of the San Francisco Alumnae Chapter of Alpha Iota Business Sorority.

Members of the unit traveled to Mrs. LaMar's San Carlos home for the meeting. Plans for the ensuing months were discussed and former secret sisters were revealed, according to Mrs. James McCraney, publicity chairman.

LOCAL VOTERS take heed! Thursday, September 16, is the last day for registering or reregistering if you have changed your name, address, party affiliation or if you failed to vote in the last general election.

St. Veronica's Women Resume Fall Meetings

The first fall meeting of the St. Veronica's Women's Club will be held tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the school cafetorium at 434 Alida way, South San Francisco.

Mrs. Raymond Donohue, newly elected president, will outline the club's activities for the coming year.

Speaker will be Sister Mary Laetetia Bordes of the Helpers of the Holy Souls whose subject will be "The Parents Role in the Religious Education of Their Children."

She is a graduate of Lumen Vitae, the international institute for catechetics in Brussels, Belgium.

Presently she is the supervisor at the Archdiocesan office of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine in San Francisco and is co-author with Father Cyr Miller of the revision of the junior high school catechism textbooks.

POLICE URGE:

Don't Lose The Ticket

(See Picture, Page 13)

"Don't tuck that ticket away — and forget it!" urge North County police officers.

"For once, it's a ticket that means a good time," according to members of the department.

They're referring to that $1 ticket that came in the mail. It admits the recipient to the Thunderbolt Hotel in Millbrae on September 9 to the Thirty-ninth annual ball of the Peninsula Police Officers' Association. Dancing begins at 9 p.m. and continues to 1 a.m. to the music of Jack Maloney's orchestra and his songstress Ruth Roland.

Contrary to public opinion, the local force points out, "It's the only ticket we enjoy giving to the public — ."

This year, probably more than ever before, local law enforcement is looking for public support.

Purchase of a $1 ticket and attendance at a ball may be a token way of showing such public support, but it is important to every one of the 350 members of the Peninsula Police Officers Association. Proceeds from the ball go toward the Widows and Orphans Fund.

Family Service Party a 'Sucess'

Pacificans can be proud of the support so many of them gave the Pacifica Auxiliary of the Family Service Agency at their Wine Tasting Party August 25. Mrs. Peter Hegedus said this week. The president said, "the party was a success, not only financially but socially as well. Many friends met to chat together while sampling the wares of the Sebastiani Wine Company and the Denmark Cheese Association."

Two wine stewards were kept busy dispensing nine varieties of wine, all donated by the wine company. A large table, attractively arranged with generous portions af five different types of cheeses was set up and donated by the cheese company.

Approximately $200 were realized (returns are still coming in) and will be used to assist the Auxiliary infulfilling its pledge to pay the monthly rental for offices at the Cabrillo Medical Center. The Family Service Agency is a member of the United Bay Area Crusade.

Mrs. Hegedus expressed her thanks to all those "who made this such a rewarding project" — the Sebastiani Wine Company, Denmark Cheese Association, Nick Gust, who contributed the use of his banquet rooms, Janet Watson, who entertained with folk songs, auxiliary members who worked to promote the party, "and particularly those, who by the purchase of tickets, proved they have warm and generous hearts."

Congregation Will Hear Jeff Teacher

On September 15, 1967, Al Wolf, 443-Fifteenth Avenue, San Francisco, will present the congregation of Temple Judea with an eye-witness report on the Israeli people during the May-June crisis and war.

Wolf, on sabbatical from the Jefferson High School District, was teaching in Israel and working on a kibbutz when the war began.

Wolf, who teaches the Religious School of Temple Judea, received his B.A. and M.A. from the University of San Francisco and is in his ninth year of teaching at Westmoor High School.

Services Resumed

Regular Friday night Sabbath Services have been resumed at Congregation B'nai Israel with Rabbi Solomon A. Shore and Cantor Jeno Friedmann officiating. Sabbath Services are also held Saturdays at 10 a.m.

Registration for Sunday School students, new and returning, will be held in two sessions on September 10, one at 10 and the other at 11 a.m.

Information regarding membership, High Holy Days seats, Sunday and Hebrew School may be had by calling the temple office, 756-5430 Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

PAPA Slates Second In Film Series

The second of a series of special films sponsored by Pacifica Association of Performing Arts will be shown tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Cultural Room of the Pacifica Library.

"Portrait of Van Cliburn" is the film, which was one of the television programs on last season's Telephone Hour Series.

These films are being made available through the efforts of a community service team of Telephone Company employees who are residents of Pacifica. Mrs. Elna Meyers, spokesman for the "team", says more of this series will be offered if there is sufficient interest shown.

Association president, Tedd Thompson issued an invitation to the public to attend the program, which is free of charge.

The library is located on Hilton Way in Sharp Park.

'A Mud Pie'

Good morning, good cooks.

Better than just "good morning," may I say, "A sunny good morning?" And would you believe that I wasn't too glad to see sunshine today? No, I haven't completely flipped my fog-dampened wig—it's just that we just returned from sunny, HOT, smoggy, southern California and that beautiful bay fog looked mighty good to my burning eyes.

Well, enough of this mish-mash. I want to share some sunny dessert recipes that you bake in the refrigerator.

This first recipe is for a mud pie. How does that grab you? A dessert your youngest darling can make; head her in the direction of the backyard with a pan of water and a large mixing spoon.

No fooling, it is called "Mud Pie," but it's full name is "Coffee Mud Pie," and that makes the difference. It combines delicious coffee cream with chocolate cookies, almonds and grated dark chocolate. And you just stick it in the freezer to bake while you go about your day's doings.

COFFEE MUD PIE

1 pkg. (8½ ozs.) chocolate wafers
6 tablespoons melted butter
½ gallon coffee ice cream
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
¼ cup almonds, slivered

Crush the 8½-oz. package chocolate wafers and mix with the six tablespoons melted butter. Press into the bottom of a 9x13 pan. Bake in 350-degree oven for ten minutes. Cool.

Next spoon the softened ½-gallon coffee ice cream into the pan. Grate the two squares unsweetened chocolate over the top and sprinkle the ¼-cup slivered almonds over all. Freeze.

Remove from freezer about a half hour before serving. Serves 12.

☆ ☆ ☆

NEXT we offer a dessert with a delicious sounding name, "Raspberry Delight." If you really want to take it easy, just buy your angel food cake and limit your work to fixing and mixing the gelatin and cream.

RASPBERRY DELIGHT

2 pkgs. raspberry gelatin
2 pkgs. frozen raspberries
1 large angel food cake
2 cups whipped cream
2½ cups water

Dissolve the two packages raspberry gelatin in the 2½ cups hot water. Add the two packages frozen raspberries and refrigerate until the mixture is slightly set. Beat very lightly, very lightly indeed, just enough to break up the raspberries and to fold in the two cups whipped cream.

Break the angle cake into bite-size pieces. Use a fork to tear the cake apart, so it will retain its lightness. Pour the gelatin mixture over the cake and blend with a light hand. Lastly, spread in a 9x13-inch pan and refrigerate over night.

RECENTLY my friend, Mrs. Lena Lesher, who lives in South San Francisco, gave me a recipe that also uses an angel food cake, gelatin, and fruit. Only in this recipe you keep the cake whole. I made it up and the results were most spectacular, both in appearance and taste.

The important thing is to have a covered bowl in which you can fit a whole angel food cake, for the cake is set into the gelatin mixture and then inverted. When I tried the recipe I used a bought cake, as none of my bowls are large enough to hold a homemade angel food cake. And instead of a cover I placed a piece of plastic wrapping over the top of the pan and secured it with rubber bands. It worked fine.

ROYAL RED CROWN CAKE

1 angel food cake
2 pkgs. strawberry gelatin
1 basket strawberries, sliced
3 2-3 cups water

Combine the two packages gelatin with the three and two-thirds cups water in a large bowl. When this begins to thicken fold in the sliced strawberries. Stir well and allow to thicken a bit more.

Next set the cake into the bowl of gelatin and strawberries. If your bowl has a cover, place the cover on the bowl and invert. Otherwise, cover with several thicknesses of plastic wrap and secure with large rubber bands around the lip of the bowl. Invert on a cookie sheet and return to refrigerator overnight.

☆ ☆ ☆

LET'S SEE, we've had chocolate, raspberries and strawberries so far, how about a lemon dessert to complete the list of goodies? This is a favorite of mine and I've made it many times for it's easy to make and makes a large dessert with a small amount of ingredients.

LEMON MYSTERY DESSERT

1 pkg. lemon gelatin
1¼ cups hot water
Juice and grated rind of one lemon
1-3 cup sugar
1 large can evaporated milk
Dash of salt
Graham cracker crust

Combine the one package lemon gelatin with the 1¼ cups hot water. Add the grated rind and juice of one lemon, the one-third cup sugar and dash of salt. Place in the refrigerator until cold and syrupy.

In the meantime, pour the evaporated milk in your ice cube tray and allow it to just begin to freeze (to the point where little fingers of ice appear at the edge of the tray). Fold into the syrupy gelatin mixture and whip until the mixture is about double in volume.

Pour into graham cracker crust—in a 9x13 pan, and chill. Serve topped with whipped cream and sprinkled with English toffee crumbs.

GRAHAM CRACKER CRUST

1½ cups graham cracker crumbs
1-3 cup sugar
¼ cup softened butter

Combine the 1½ cups crumbs with the one-third cup sugar and ¼-cup butter, mix well. Press into the bottom of 9x13-inch pan. Chill at least one hour or bake in 375-degree oven for eight minutes and cool before filling.

☆ ☆ ☆

FOR the English toffee topping I just bought some candy bars and placed them in my food blender. sprinkled what I needed on this dessert and saved the rest in a covered jar in the refrigerator for later uses.

Leaving Lincoln Park Clubhouse, some 70 members attended the event.

They had a barbecue, with coffee and dessert. Activities included cards and games.

TIRE PRESSURE

HOT WEATHER calls for a meaty salad like this one made with corned beef. Pickled beets and peas contribute color while celery and radishes give texture.

Corned Beef Salad In a Ruby Ring

Happy surprises are in store when you taste corned beef in this ruby-tinted salad ring. Vegetables used with the meat contribute color and texture to make this cool meal well balanced.

Corned beef may be purchased already cooked and sliced as a ready-to-serve meat. If, however, you've purchased one for cooking, it will usually weigh four to five pounds and, unless pre-tendered, should be simmered in water enough to cover, advises a meat authority.

Cooking will take from four to five hours. For serving, slice across the grain. Use for cold meat platters, sandwiches or in this molded salad.

Spicy Corned Beef Salad Ring

2 cups sliced cooked corned beef, cut into ¾ inch cubes
1½ tablespoons gelatin
1-3 cup cold water
2 bouillon cubes
¼ teaspoon Worcestshire sauce
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup diced pickled beets
1 cup diced celery
½ cup cooked peas
½ cup sliced radishes

Soften gelatin in cold water. Dissolve bouillion cubes in boiling water. Add softened gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add seasonings. Chill until slightly congealed. Add beets, celery, peas, radishes and corned beef. Pour into a 1¼-quart ring mold and chill. Eight servings.

Q. What's the name of this meat cut?

A. Pork tenderloin.

Q. Where does it come from? How is it identified?

A. This is the small muscle of the loin section. It's a small (one-half to one pound), tender, boneless cut. The larger end is round but it tapers gradually to a thin, rather flat, end. Fibers run lengthwise. There's a small amount of fat within the cut as well as on the outside. Pork tenderloin is sometimes sold whole. At other times it's cut into patties and flattened by the retailer.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. Pork tenderloin may be roasted, broiled or braised. Patties may be pan-fried or braised. For roasting, place the tenderloin on a rack in an open roasting pan. Roast in a moderate oven (350° F.) until the roast meat thermometer registers 170° F. For braising patties, brown the patties using lard or drippings. Season with salt and pepper. Add two to three tablespoons of water, cover tightly and cook slowly about 30 minutes or until done.

Top Cheese Muffin With Sesame Seed

Muffins filled with good cheddar cheese flavor and topped with toasted sesame seeds will have children and father at the table double-quick. besides the delightful surprise quality of the flavor there are all those additional milk nutrients of the cheese.

2 cups sifted flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1½ cups shredded cheddar cheese (6 ounces)
1 egg, beaten
¾ to 1 cup milk
2 tablespoons melted butter
4 teaspoons toasted sesame seed*
Melted butter

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Mix in cheese. Combine egg, milk and the 2 tablespoons melted butter. Add liquid mixture to flour mixture and stir only until flour is moistened. Fill greased muffin pans 2-3 full. Sprinkle with sesame seed and drizzle lightly with butter. Bake in moderately hot, 400 degree, oven 15 to 20 minutes. makes 1 dozen muffins.

Toasted Sesame Seed. Spread sesame seed in shallow pan. Heat in moderate, 350-degree, oven 10 to 15-minutes.

Milk and Coffee

For a hot milk drink, most people think of milk-made cocoa. Adults in the family may like coffee European style. This is made by pouring equal portions of hot milk and hot coffee together into the cup.

EASIEST EATING UNDER THE SUN — Food must be extra-tempting when the sun rides high. This inviting combination of egg salad sandwiches and chilled soup is as easy to fix as it is to eat. The soup is Cream of Celery, heated with flaked, cooked crab and chopped cucumber; then chilled in the refrigerator and garnished with parsley.

Easiest Eating Under the Sun

Food must be extra-tempting when the sun rides high. For this is the reason when appetites slacken. Big meals pall. And the right kind of meal is the light kind of meal that still provides the basic nourishment everyone needs at any time of year.

One favorite food combination in the simmering summer is the soup and sandwich lunch or supper. Easy as it is to prepare, it also quickens the appetite in an inviting way. Easy as it is to eat, it encourages relaxation. And a soup and sandwich meal helps to restore the liquids, the salt and the energy that summer sun drains away.

See how these twosome meals can tempt your family group.

CRABMEAT CUCUMBER COOLER

1 can (10½ ounces) condensed Cream of Celery Soup
½ soup can milk
½ soup can water
½ cup faked cooked crab
¼ cup chopped cucumber
Dash pepper
Chopped parsley

Blend soup, milk, and water. Add crab, cucumber, and pepper. Heat; stir now and then. Garnish with parsley. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

NOTE: To serve as a cold soup, follow above directions; chill in refrigrator at least 4 hours.

SERVE with a sandwich of egg salad with lettuce and strips of pimiento.

CHICKEN SOUP MEDITERRANEAN

2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed Chicken with Rice Soup
1 soup can water
¼ cup diced cooked zucchini
Dash pepper
Dash poultry seasoning
Chopped tomato

Cook onion in butter until tender. Add soup and remaining ingredients except tomato. Heat; stir now and then. Garnish with tomato. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

SERVE with a sandwich of chipped beef, cream cheese, and cerely.

CHILLY CHICKEN AVOCADO SOUP

1 ran (10½ ounces) condensed Consomme
1-3 cup chopped cooked chicken
¼ cup diced avocado
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Dash pepper
Lettuce
Thinly sliced celery

Place unopened can of consomme in refrigerator until jellied, about 4 hours. Meanwhile, combine chicken, avocado, lemon juice, and pepper. Refrigerate. To serve, line sherbet dishes with lettuce. Spoon a little consomme on lettuce; top with chicken mixture; spoon on additional consomme. Garnish with celery. Serve with lemon wedges, if desired. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

SERVE with a lobster salad sandwich.

Thinly sliced lemon is a tangy topper for consomme, chicken gumbo and vegetable beef soups.

High Rising Souffle Dish Uses Potatoes

The making of this high-in-milk-protein main dish souffle need not be undertaken with isgivings. Actually, made this way, it's not difficult at all. However, it is vital that its dramatic appearance at the table be timed for serving straight from the oven or without more than a few minutes delay.

Best results are obtained when a paper collar runs around top of baking dish. The trick of running top of a spoon in a circle around the oven-ready dish about 1½ inces from the edge is a good one for controlling line where track will form when souffle bakes.

You can use one of the packaged quick mashed potatoes if you like; follow package directions which include milk and seasoning indicated in this recipe. Six servings.

2 cups mashed potatoes
½ cup hot milk
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
¾ cup grated sharp American cheese
2 eggs, separated

Mash potatoes until smooth without milk. Then add milk, salt, black pepper, butter and onion. Beat until fluffy. Stir in cheese; add beaten egg yolks. Beat egg whites until they stand in soft, stiff peaks and carefully fold into the mixture. Turn into an ungreased 1-quart casserole. Bake in a pre-heated moderate, 350 degree, oven 1 hour or until well puffed and firm in center. Serve at once.

Adults attending the JUHSD adult division can literally move from the first grade right on through to a high school diploma while working ina multitude of academic courses, as well as in Americanization, business education, fine arts and crafts, foreign languages, health education, homemaking, industrial arts, music, and the special elementary subjects.

El Camino Hi To Welcome Newcomers

An activity orientation assembly for the El Camino High School class of 1970 and all other incoming new students will be held this Wednesday to start off the year at the South San Francisco school.

Student Body President Bruce Burns will explain briefly about the student government, with Block Society President Frank Lucia and Colt Society President Dwight Price explaining the functions of their organizations.

A tour of the school will be conducted by the two societies, followed by showing of slides of past activities at El Camino.

Monday, September 11, classes at El Camino High will begin for the seventh time. Some of the activities of the first few months are six night football games, with rooter busses for all away games, the "Kick-off" dance, Sadie Hawkins Day dance and many rallies.

Heading this year's activities is the student council, including: Fred Peterson, vice-president; Debby Pero, secretary; Jeanette Collins, treasurer; Jerry Burke, boys' representative; and Jean Jarvinen, girls' representative.

This year's senior class officers include: Phil Devine, president; Al Fernandez, vice-president; Rose Brito, secretary; and Pat Finnegan, treasurer.

Leading the junior class will be: Tom Hayes, president; Jack Berghouse, vice-president; Margie O'Kennon, secretary; and Laura Finnegan, treasurer.

El Camino Block Society, known to all as the Block "C," will be led by: Lucia, with Robert Teames, vice-president; Mike Holden, secretary-treasurer; and James Teames, sergeant-at-arms.

The Colt Society will be directed by Price, with Dave Swain, vice-president; Linda Barton, secretary; Gretchen Bloom, treasurer; and Phil Devine, historian.

The largest club on campus, the Foreign Language Club, will be led by Larry Sullivan, president; Dean Case, vice-president; Margie Salmon, secretary; Chris Hanson, treasurer; and Dennis Evans, historian.

Heading the spirit at Camino this year will be the pompon girls and yell leaders, who are Linda Barton, Simone Stipanich, Carole Brown, Ellen Steinkamp, Nancy Farrell, Shari Gunier, Greg Thorpe, Rick Gunier and Mike Cutrufelli. Assisting with the spirit are the EC mascots Cathy Wheat, Teri Graf, Laura Finnegan and Karen McCleod. Varsity football captains will be Lucia and Bob and Jim Teames.

Editor of the yearbook, "The Yearling," will be Katie Milo. Co-editors of the El Camino newspaper, "El Cabillito," are Jackie Stone and Dave Hungerford.

$1,600 Theft Puzzle To S.S.F. Police

South San Francisco police are attempting to pin down the details surrounding the theft of $1,600 from the Brunswig Drug Company warehouse of 1775 Sylvester Road.

The firm reported that someone apparently entered its office during working hours and took money and cashier's checks between August 22 and 24.

Police said mechanics of the theft have yet to be determined.

Frosh Getting Ready

The marching beat of the famed Capuchino Band, directed by renowned Mr. "B," (Ralph Bredenberg) drew several hundred freshmen students into the school gymnasium for a special Freshman Orientation day last week as school days neared.

The assembly program featured school cheers and songs led by colorfully garbed pompon girls, cheerleaders and majorettes, and brief messages of welcome from student body officers and school administrators.

Ernie Hickson, Capuchino principal, included mention of student dress standards on request from upperclassmen. The school expects students to be dressed and groomed in a manner consistent with its purposes of teaching and learning.

Hickson noted that this attitude of the district and school has been the same for many years. The concern of a school staff is directed toward extremes of dress and grooming which, through distraction, interferes with teaching and learning or diminishes the fine traditions and reputation of the student body and Capuchino itself. Hickson stressed that extremes of dress and grooming will be handled individually and with reason.

Arthur Hopgood, vice principal of guidance, reminded freshmen that classes begin on September 6, preceded by an all-school assembly in the gymnasium at which time Mr. Paul Claudon, district director of personnel and former principal of Capuchino, will introduce new administrators: Mr. Ernie Hickson, Mr. Andrew Jezycki, and Mrs. Mary Lee Santee to students and faculty.

S.S.F. Firm Builds Dam

Guy F. Atkinson Company of South San Francisco said Thursday that an international group is the apparent low bidder for construction of Mica Dam for the British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority in Canada.

With Atkinson as managing partner, the combine consists of Arundel Corp. of Baltimore, Md., L. E. Dixon Company of San Gabriel, Calif., Dillingham Corporation of Honolulu and Commonwealth Construction Company of Vancouver, B.C.

The bid of $136.2 million (Canadian) is believed to be the second largest fixed unit price for heavy construction in North America, Atkinson said.

Mica is the largest of the dams planned in the Canadian-U.S. Columbia River Treaty power and flood control project. The construction site, 87 miles north of Revelstoke, B.C., is 225 miles north of the U.S.-Canadian border.

Construction is scheduled to start this fall with completion calendared for Oct. 31, 1973.

$500 Taken In Theft At S.S.F. Home

More than $500 worth of clothes, cameras and jewelry was stolen Tuesday from the Larch Street home of a South San Francisco resident, police reported.

Officers said the home of Sue Labrum, 701 Larch, was burglarized, while he was at work between 6&30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Entrance to the house was gained through forcing a rear bedroom window.

In another burglary Tuesday, a watch, $20 in cash and miscellaneous household items were stolen from a King Drive apartment, while the owner, Robert A. Toledo, was away.

Someone entered the unlocked front door of the apartment between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m., police said.

Car Came Out Clean In the Wash

Val Connolly Jr. told Daly City police last week his car was worth $1,260 less after it came through a local car wash.

Connolly, of 229 Beechwood Drive, Pacifica, reported that more than $260 in cash along with a paid up Christmas Club booklet valued at $1,000, was taken from his car during the washing process.

Police are continuing their investigation of the incident, a spokesman said.

SSF Girls' Day Camp Successful

A first for the South San Francisco Girl Scout Association was the recent day camp at Junipero Serra Park.

Directing the event was Mrs. George Diaż and her assistants, Mmes. Jack Kessler, registrar; Duane C. Delimont, business manager; Charles Long, assistnat camp director; John Chin, unit leader; George Hendrickson, Foxridge representative; and Jean Moretti.

The 1966 day camp for the areas of San Bruno, Daly City, Pacifica and San Mateo had only 30 girls from South San Francisco, but 243 showed up from the area at this year's camp.

Also there was a boy's unit, aged eight to 13, who were taken on hikes, cookouts, had sing songs and made all the camp signs under the direction of Randy Garringe.

No major accidents were reported although poison oak managed to put in an appearance.

An open letter has been received by the Girl Scout Association from Walt Sjosten, chief park ranger, commending the group for its camp behavior, cooperation and cleanliness.

Plane Crash Victim's Library Given School

When Westmoor students return to school on September 11, they will find the school library enriched through the addition of a memorial collection. Over 300 books, stamped "Ex Libris Ronald A. Gustin" have been added to the library shelves.

The collection, valued in excess of $5,000, was given to Westmoor by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gustin, parents of Ronald Gustin who died in a plane accident last June.

Gustin, who had taught world history at Westmoor for two years, was also known for his interest in fine arts. His collection illustrates his wide range of interests with opera, history and literature predominating.

While at Westmoor Gustin's interest in opera was evident, as he took large student groups to the opera through blocks of seats he has reserved while teaching at Napa Junior High School. His library includes sets of two opera magazines: Opera News, published by the New York Metropolitan Opera Guild and Opera, published in England.

The history part of the collection covers both U.S. and world history. In addition to textbooks, there are current historical works and many volume editions, including Messages and Papers of Presidents, Horizon Books; Ancient Rome, Christianity, etc.; American Heritage. Indians, Natural Wonders, etc.; and Will Durant's Story of Civilization. Besides The American Heritage in the magazine classification there are sets of The American West and the American Historical Review.

His interest in literature is evident through such fine limited editions as Stondahl's The Red and the Black, and Andrew Turnbull's Scout Fitzgerald, as well as volume sets of The Yale Shakespeare and Plutarch's Lives, the source of many of Shakespear's plots.

Complete sets of the Encyclopedia Britannica with its Yearbook and Life's: World library, Great Ages of Man Library, Nature Library, and Science Library are also in the collection.

Although these three fields comprise the heart of the collection, there are many other kinds of books ranging from magnificent art editions of Leonardo DiVinci and Michaelangelo to paperbacks in German. Other paperbacks extend from the Philosophy of Existentialism to the humorous, It All Started with Columbus.

The collection will be kept intact and housed in the Instructional Materials Center, according to Mrs. Anne Lynde, Westmoor's librarian.

Mrs. Lynde, who plans to have art and history centers available to all students, commented, "Mr. Gustin evidenced a great interest in all phases of the Westmoor Library program. One could sense his desire to help his students realize the tremendous insights to be gained from a study of the world's history and cultures, and his fine collection of magazines and books now available to students and faculty through the Westmoor Library will help foster this ideal."

Youth Group Plans Benefit Dance on 16th

The South San Francisco Youth Baseball Managers Association is holding a benefit dance on Saturday, September 16, from 9:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. at the South San Francisco Rod and Gun Club.

Tickets for the benefit-dance may be obtained through any member of the Baseball Managers Association. The purchase of a ticket entitles the bearer to a chance on a color TV set, first prize; Stereo Set, Tape Recorder. Table Radio, Golf set or other valuable prizes.

Proceeds of the dance go towards financing insurance, trophies, umpires' fees and other items needed to run a successful program. This past season, 350 boys, on 18 teams, participated in the baseball program. Boys from 10 to 16 years of age, throughout South San Francisco, have an opportunity to play on the Midget, 13 and Under or Pony League baseball teams during the summer.

Managers Association members Ermen Rossi, president; Frank Gregor, ticket sales chairman; Ray Cushing, treasurer, or Ray Martinez, secretary, may be contacted for information on the Managers Association or ticket sales.

The South San Francisco Recreation and Parks Department may also be contacted for information on the Association.

Daly City Is Using Food Stamp Plan

Residents of Daly City have made more extensive use of the new federal food stamp program than any other community in San Mateo County, according to Thomas Ahern, U.S. Department of Agriculture official, who administers the program.

Statistics show that $41,403 worth of food coupons have been redeemed at 27 grocery stores in the north county city, almost four times that of runner-up Redwood City, since the program began April 18.

Heaviest users of the food stamp program after Daly City are Redwood City, $13,251; San Mateo, $8,775; East Palo Alto, $6,635; South San Francisco, $6,572; San Bruno, $4,325; Burlingame, $3,993; Pacifica, $3,757; Millbrae, $1,808 and Colma, $1,698.

Next in order of use were Menlo Park, Belmont, San Carlos, Pescadero, Brisbane, Moss Beach and Half Moon Bay. The communities of Princeton, El Granada, La Honda, Woodside and Foster City made no use of the program at all, even though there are participating stores in those areas.

The food stamp program is not a welfare program, Ahern stressed, but is designed to assist low-income and limited income families to increase their ability to purchase more nutritious food.

Food coupons issued in the county through July 31 totaled $115,500, permitting the average household to realize a 30 per cent increase in their food buying power, Ahern said.

North Co. Youth To Scot Games

Three north county youngsters, two from San Bruno and one from South San Francisco, competed in the 102nd Annual Scottish Gathering and Games last Saturday and Sunday at the Santa Rosa Fairgrounds.

They are: Patricia Kerr Wilson, 11, 136 Anza Way, and Cynthia Duke, 11, 110 Parkview Court, both of San Bruno and both in five events; and Richard Fisch, 16, 554 Rosca Avenue, South San Francisco.

Station Break: $500 Taken

More than $500 in cash and merchandise was taken Monday in a San Bruno service station burglary.

Police said the Richfield station on San Bruno Avenue was broken in to between midnight Sunday and 7 a.m. Monday.

West Germans Make Effort to Keep 'Em in School Longer

By PETER REHAK

BONN (AP) — West German education authorities are making an effort to keep children in school longer.

With this in mind, 10 of the 11 West German states have added a ninth compulsory school year to their grade schools this year

By the fall of 1967, only Bavaria will be left with an eight-grade basic school but it, too, is expected to add a ninth year as soon as finances permit.

The other 10 states added the extra year by splitting the 1966-67 school year into two short ones, a move also designed to shift the start of the school year from spring to the fall.

Since the Bavarian school year already started in the fall, that state was NOT able to add its ninth year in stages but will have to add it in one step.

One result of the change is that for the first time since World War II, West German schools will start their school year at the same time this fall.

The different starting times date back to the end of World War II when schools were placed under the control of state governments, where they remain to this day. At that time, Bavaria decided to stay with its tradition of starting the school year in the fall and the other states started in the spring, in accordance with their own traditions.

The change in the school year and the addition of another year to the baasic schools were decided on in 1964 by the standing conference of ministers of education, a Bonn-based coordinating body headed by the ecucation ministers of all the states.

The uniform school year starting time brings Germany into step with other countries in the European Common Market.

Coupled with the addition of a ninth year to the grade schools is a government campaign to persuade West German parents to keep their children in school longer.

West Germany is markedly behind other industrialized countries in keeping its youth in full-time school. Education is compulsory until the age of 18 but an apprenticeship also counts as education. Apprentices usually take up practical training after completing the basic grade school. They spend one day a week in a special apprentices' school.

High Drop-Out Rate

Statistics show that only eight per cent of West German children spend more than nine years in a full-time school. The comparative figure is 31 per cent in France and 64 per cent in the United States.

The government also is concerned that too few grammar school pupils reach university entrance level and that among those who do, too few are children of farmers and industrial workers.

Last summer university students went out to explain to parents in remote rural areas why they should keep their children in school longer. In some states the ministers of education took part in a similar drive.

In addition, the government is distributing pamphlets to show parents that children who stay in school longer have more profitable and satisfying careers.

Adult education facilities have also been expanded in the past few years and this trend is continuing, officials say. The state governments are also continuing to do away with one-room rural schools in which one teacher has charge of several grades at the same time. New school construction is concentrated on larger schools in small towns where pupils are separated by grades in different rooms and under different teachers.

This trend is reflected in figures that show 30.291 grade schools in West Germany in 1957 and almost the same number, 30.020 in 1964, the last year for which figures are available. The number decreased slightly despite an increase in the number of pupils from 4.9 million to 5.4 million in the same period.

On the university level, four new universities are under construction. One, in Bochum, is already in partial operation. The others are at Constance, Regensburg and Bremen.

Schools Fare Well in '67 Legislature

SACRAMENTO — Depending on who evaluates it, the 1967 California Legislature will be praised or condemned, but school children may properly be grateful for the efforts in their behalf by the state's 120 legislators.

The public schools fared well, not only in being afforded a record increase in financial support, but in the more directly felt academic areas as well.

Ray Johnson, acting chief of the Division of Public School Administration, State Department of Education, says the $145 million in new annual support for schools amounts to $29 per pupil in the elementary through junior college levels. This sum will be allocated to districts on the basis of local tax resources, the wealthiest districts receiving no increase and the middle and low wealth districts getting a major boost in state support.

"This amounts to three times the largest increase ever granted schools by past legislatures, and financing was assured by provisions in the tax legislation adopted earlier," Jack Rees, state executive secretary of the California Teachers Association (CTA), pointed out.

Bipartisan concern for the growing financial crisis in California schools led to this major step toward solution, Rees said, even though this has been a year of concern over all aspects of governmental financing.

Local educators will translate these funds into more and better education.

In line with a realization that educational emphasis needs to be redirected toward the beginners, the age for compulsory attendance was lowered from 8 to 6 years.

A program was set in motion to capitalize on the gains of preschool education. Characterized by the late Sen. J. Eugene McAteer as a "follow-through" program, it will involve pilot through grade 3 in districts which have substantial numbers of children who "graduated" from preschool programs.

These new programs will be regarded essentially as compensatory education programs and will be conducted under the supervision of Dr. Wilson C. Riles, state director of compensatory education.

Two new laws are aimed at capable youngsters who, for one of two reasons, cannot cope with the standard existing curriculum.

One group is composed of children with a mother tongue other than English. When they return to school next month, they may find, if the local board so disposes, that they are free to pursue their studies in their mother tongue pending a workable knowledge of English.

The other program will seek, on a pilot basis, to find mentally gifted children among the disadvantaged school population and set up compensatory education programs for them.

This program will likely not hit its stride until the 1968-69 school year because of a scarcity of funds, but the administrative machinery can be started next January, according to Assemblyman William Bagley (R-San Rafael), who authored the new law.

High school students will find their studies of dangerous drugs, tobacco and alcohol expanded to include the effects on health of the new hallucinatory drugs.

For a limited number of high school students, excursions to Canada may become a reality, because legislative authorization was given for districts to provide such trips.

Driver education and training may undergo some changes as the result of a new law which establishes a division of driver education in the State Department of Education and sets standards for instruction and for instructor qualificaitons.

Dairy Sour Cream Keeps

Increasingly we are asked if dairy sour cream keeps well or if it should be used at once. Home economists for the Dairy Council of California tell us that dairy-made sour cream keeps very well in a covered container in the refrigerator.

An ever increasing number of Californians keep a carton of dairy sour cream on hand because of its multiplicity of uses in improving and dressing up many an everyday dish. California cooks last year used more than 3 million gallons of dairy-fresh sour cream.

Successful Toys Mind-Stretchers

Toys may teach pre-schoolers colors, or introduce them to the elements of spatial relationships and logical reasoning, but first of all they must be fun.

Pinpointing this basic concept, Bob Hicks, vice president of a toy company in Buffalo, N.YM, describes a dump truck on the toy line.

"The trucks and the individual garages for them are coded by color," he says, " and the truck won't fit into the garage if the colors don't match. At first children don't realize this. They just push the trucks around for a while, and gradually come to realize which goes where.

"The same with a toy cash register. At first the child just enjoys the bell which rings when the door opens. Later on he may see the relationship between the supermarket cash register and his toy, he may become involved with paper money, and the fact that money is related to buying goods. But all this is a gradual process."

Hciks calls these pre-school playthings "toys that lead to something."

"We see that they really do prepare a child for school by developing his muscular coordination, by the use of numbers and letters, by cut-out inserts of different shapes," says Hicks. "But these to the child are really sub-conscious things coming out of his own play."

Terming successful toys those that "stretch the child's mind, change his thoughts and stimulate his imagination," Hicks describes the flexible use of the company's Three Bears house. A child, he says, will at first use the large key to open the door and put the bears and Goldilocks at their proper places at the dining table.

Later on, he discoveres the roof comes off, so he has them enter by this means, or even down the chimney, a la Santa Claus. Meanwhile, he's exposed to the story lettered on the wall of the house, which he may ask his mother to read to him.

Answers To Milk Falacy

Three questions frequently asked home economists and nutritionists of the Dairy Council of California are: Is milk constipating? Can fish and milk be eaten together? Will acid fruits and milk eaten together cause indigestion?

Categorically, the answer to all three is a loud and ringing NO! Milk is quickly and thoroughly digested because it contains no roughage; little residue. The other two questions are best answered by considering a fish chowder or oyster stew, a tasty custard-based lemon or orange pie as proof of compatibility.

Medical Check Is Needed Now

If your child is starting school this Fall, now is the time for a complete medical checkup. Minor problems can be corrected before classes begin and if any special conditions or handicaps are found which require individual attention, school authorities can be notified so the child's teacher can help him to do his best.

Many schools now require a health record filled out by a doctor, at the time the child is registered. An article in the August issue of Parents' Magazine explains exactly what should be taken care of in a summer pre-school medical examination.

The most important step is to have the youngster properly inoculated against the serious contagious diseases that once claimed the lives of many children. The article explains that even though most of the initial doses are given during the first year of a child's life, booster and pre-school shots are necessities. An important innoculation is "DPT" Triple vaccine (against diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus) and if a child did not have a booster dose at approximately four years of age, he must have one before starting school. Also, vaccination against smallpox should be repeated every three to five years.

Paralytic polio, which only ten short years ago claimed 14,000 victims, has all but been wiped out by the Salk and Sabin vaccines. This too, given initially during infancy, requires a booster dose before a child starts school and every four to six years thereafter to assure safety from polio.

Vaccination against measles has been possible since 1963 yet many parents are not aware of it. According to the Parents' Magazine article, of all the childhood diseases that remain, measles is the one with the most risk. It can lead to pneumonia, encephalitis, mental retardation and can even be fatal. Your child should be immunized before starting school.

A pre-school checkup is not complete without an eye examination and a visit to the dentist. August is the time for preparing the student-to-be both physically and emotionally for the exciting days to come.

Try Making This Glazed Prune Cake

Some recipes stand the test of time, and one of them is glazed prune cake.

This dessert boasts interesting spicy flavor, deliciously moist texture, enticing glaze, and good keeping qualities.

One tip: the Butterscotch Glaze for the cake is so delicious that you had better make it when you are alone in the kitchen! Otherwise, anyone who happens to be around is likely to steal spoonfuls of the glaze before you have a chance to pour it over the cake.

PRUNE CAKE WITH BUTTERSCOTCH GLAZE

2 cups sifted regular flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon nutmeg
1 tablespoon allspice
1 cup corn oil
1½ cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup buttermilk
1½ cups coarsely cut, cooked, drained, pitted prunes
1 cup chopped walnuts or pecans

Butterscotch Glaze

On wax paper sift together flour, baking soda, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and allspice; set aside. In a large mixing bowl beat together the corn oil and sugar; add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition; stir in vanilla. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with buttermilk, about ⅓ at a time, blending well after each addition. Stir in prunes and nuts, Pour into an ungreased 9-inch tube pan with removable bottom. Bake in a moderate oven 35 degrees until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean—about one hour. About 15 minutes before cake is done, prepare Butterscotch Glaze. Pour hot glaze immeditely over cake in pan, When cake is cool, remove from pan.

BUTTERSCOTCH GLAZE

1 cup sugar
½ cup buttermilk
¼ cup (½ stick) butter or margarine
¼ cup light corn syrup
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon vanilla

Into a 3-quart saucepan turn all the ingredients. Over medium heat, stirring occasionally, bring to a full boil and boil 10 minutes. While sauce is hot, pour immediately over cake in pan. Allow to soak into cake. Cool cake completely before removing from pan. Makes 1 cup glaze.

BACON WAFFLES

Cut each piece of bacon into four pieces, placing one in each section of the waffle iron. Pour waffle batter and bake.

Another way to have bacon waffles is to cook the bacon first, then crumble it in the waffle batter.

Don't Demand Too Much Performance

By GEORGE W. NEILL

Far too many students at all age levels are becoming strained, hostile, unhappy and unproductive because their parents are demanding impossible performance.

In fact, it is not an exaggeration to say that many parents—and some schools, too—are becoming hysterical about achievement and competition.

That's how Dr. Donald McNassor, professor of education, Claremont Graduate School, describes the educational climate in which today's youngsters live.

In an eloquent appeal to the adult community, McNassor declared that today's pressures are devastating to the young personality.

"There's no place today for a child who under-achieves in anything, no place for slowness of response, no room for gradualism in human development and individuality in learning.

"All children look like under-achievers now," he continued. "Under-achievement is the watchword in child development, in homes, in schools, in research games of the age.

"The pressures on children to achieve more than they do or can, to do better and better even though they exhaust their resources, are universal, intense, unremitting. What is worse, the pressures as interpreted by too many children are vengeful in purpose.

"If the situation is causing a rise in incidence of somatic tension and ulcers in children and youth, no matter about that," McNassor commented with sarcasm. "Tranquilizers will take care of it when they are young, and stronger drugs will help them forget when they reach college."

McNassor is convinced that children cannot remain physically and mentally healthy by going through school with a nagging feeling that, in some way, they are not the kind of persons they are supposed to be; that no matter what they do, it is never enough.

Children living in this climate, he continued, "will not become truly imaginative, affectionate and creative if they feel under pressure to be in a desperate hurry to compete for the best jobs, the top honors, the best grades, the good colleges, the better sections of classes at school, the classes most likely to yield high grade averages.

"Children need periods of incubation, time to turn to an inner world of long thoughts, opportunities to become deeply involved with an idea or interest."

If every child has his own Shakespeare buried deep inside, he has slender chance to discover it in the schools of the 1960's, McNassor declared.

A prescription for a high incidence of adult and adolescent suicide, he asserted, included the following: Put enough pressure on children either to achieve and excel, or to remain anonymous; give them early a tight performance schedule; remove unconditional love as a strong ingredient in the relations of wives and husbands and children; use guilt and shame as the principal disciplinary device; and condition children to be calm, to control their anger.

McNassor advises parents and teachers to act in ways that will reduce a needless amount of the sense of failure and self-criticism in the children they live with. He also suggested that secondary schools try the pass-fail system in at least a few student's courses.

"There is something else parents can do while there is time," he concluded. "Get off your child's back. Give him a little more free air to breath."

Noted Economist Studying Today's Dropouts

A noted economist who is also chairman of the National Manpower Advisory Commitee has spent much time analyzing dropouts — and he finds the picture not as bleak as other educators do.

Dr. Eli Ginzberg says that the term drop-out "has an insidious connotation until one realizes that in earlier generations it could have been applied to youngsters who did not complete elementary school — and that it is beginning to be applied to those who enter college, but do not stay to earn a degree."

Analyzing the reasons for leaving school, Dr. Ginzberg notes that the most important one is that these students are "several years behind schedule by the time they reach school-leaving age, usually 16."

This, he explains, usually reflects an early difficulty in mastering the curriculum, which, in turn caused the youngster to develop negative attitudes toward school.

"Classes become uninteresting an discipline increasingly burdensome," he comments. "Small wonder that this group takes the first opportunity to escape from these restraints."

Another large group of dropouts are young men and women who have been able to make normal progress, but have never been interested in learnnig, Dr. Ginzberg explains.

"Many of these young people are growing up in communities which see little importance in educational achievement, where the facilities and teaching staff are often inadequate; usually they are not encouraged by family or friends to continue in school," the expert says.

"The third group of dropouts is a heterogeneous assemblage including some with special talents, who have major problems which make it difficult or impossible for them to remain in school," he continues.

The reasons may be trouble with the police, marriage or pregnancy, emotional disturbances, desire to get away from home, and the need to earn money.

For all of these youngsters, Dr. Ginzberg would say: "There is no point in forcing young people to remain in school if they have not acquired the skills with which to learn, and if they cannot relate their school experiences to their present or future life.

"It is not a high school diploma per se that qualifies a young person for work and for responsible citizenship. Rather, it is his acquisition during the years that he is growing up of a value orientation, social competences, intellectual knowledge and skills, and study and work habit that will enable him to find a place within our highly differentiated economy and society."

To achieve this, Dr. Ginzberg recommends searching for fundamental improvements in the learning process much earlier than high school, to reading adn other skills will make it possible for students to make constructive use of high school.

He raises the question as to whether more work - study programs might help youth acquire a more realistic attitude toward jobs.

He also questions the necessity of having a high school diploma in order to get a job, and asks whether this is a reasonable requirement

Enrollments Bring Challenges

By LYDIA BICKFORD

The non-stop race for diplomas and sheepskins is challenging educators to invent new ways of teaching.

The problems they face are tremendous. College enrollments will increase 49 per cent by 1975, according to the U.S. Office of Education.

In the same period, high school enrollments will be up about 25 per cent. The pace slackens only in elementary school .An increase of less than two per cent is predicted there because the birth rate dropped off after 1961.

While the cement mixers whirl to increase the physical plants of the nation's schools, the question of how students learn better is getting more attention.

Does a colllege student need to attend a formal class three times a week in order to learn?

Dr. Virginia Gildersleeve, former president of Barnard College, says not. She recommends having the student study on his own for periods as long as a month, then check with his professor on his grasp of the material.

At Earlham College, in Richmond, Ind., there is currently an experimental program of this kind, where 66 freshmen entering in the fall of 1966 immediately enrolled in independent study.

Must the business of imparting knowledge be restricted to the school faculty?

Administrators in areas like Princeton, N.J. and New Canaan, Conn. tried tapping the reservoirs of their communities. They invited local authorities to teach for a semester, to take over one class when a special field was being discussed, to take over an assembly program, to do remedial reading and math, or to act as "lay readers," correcting English, history and social science papers at home.

Must a school schedule classes in tight, 40-minute compartments?

In school systems like Denver and Scarsdale, N.Y., the school day is very much like an accordion: stretching out to periods of over an hour when several hundred students may come together for a special lecture, sequeezing back to half an hour's individualized work in a language lab or computerized program.

Need the school library be limited strictly to housing books?

Not at all. Libraries now have a new name, as well as a deeper function: they're resource materials centers.

Students there find information on microfilm, on records, on tapes, on slides. The necessary audio-visual aids are part of the library; there are individual study cubicles where the student can operate these aids.

How much pooling of educational resources can schools and colleges achieve?

A great deal. Currently, students in schools in different parts of the country can have computerized instruction from centers like Standford University, Penn State and the University of Illinois by means of ordinary telephone wires.

Biggest blocks to the expansion of this kind of teaching are the high cost of the computer and the number of man hours it takes to set up a program. Federal and foundation money are helping the Stanford program, and the hope is that technicians will find ways to cut costs in building computers. Stocking the computer is slow work. It now takes about 40 man hours for one individual to prepare an hour's computerized lesson. But once on tape, it can be used ad infinitum.

On the college level, pooling resources is becoming commonplace. For a long time, adjacent colleges like Swarthmore, Haverford, Bryn Mawr and the University of Pennsylvania have permitted students to take courses in any of the other institutions.

For example, a Swarthmore student may study comparative anatomy at Bryn Mawr or urban social problems at Penn.

Now, cluster colleges are being developed from scratch all over the country. Hamilton College, a men's college very much off the urban track in Clinton, N.Y., is creating a series of coordinated colleges right on its own campus. The first one to be built, called Kirkland College, is for women.

In California, a relatively new campus of the University of Berkeley, called the U.C. Santa Cruz, will encompass several separate colleges, each of which will concentrate in one academic area. The present Cowell Colllege concentrates on the humanities, Adlai Stevenson College is more rooted in the social sciences, and the newest, to be opened in 1968, Crown College, will concentrate on sciences. Case and Western Reserve have joined forces in Cleveland.

In all this educational derring-do, there can be no let-up. For the students are coming, 65 million of them by 1975-1976, and they are sophisticated enough to demand quality education.

A Gourmet Touch For Variety Meat

When it's variety you want, serve a variety meat

Many of the variety meats also lend themselves to gourmet type of cookery easily, as this one with sliced tongue. The sauce going with this meat is a flour-thickened mixture with capers, onion, vinegar, and mustard, explains a meat authority.

New brides or career women will probably want to purchase this mild-flavored meat already cooked and sliced. More experienced homemakers may purchase it fresh or smoked to be cooked in water.

To cook beef tongue, first wash it under cold water, then place in a kettle with water to cover. Skip the salt for smoked tongue but add one teaspoon for each quart of water when using a fresh cut. The cooking time will be approximately an hour per pound of meat.

Cooked Tongue—Caper Sauce

- 1 pound not, thinly sliced, cooked tongue
- 1 teaspoon minced onion
- 1 teaspoon chopped capers
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 cup water
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 1 tablespoon catsup
- ¼ teaspoon prepared mustard
- ¼ teaspoon sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper

Cook onion and capers in butter or margarine about two minutes. Stir in flour. Add water, vinegar, catsup, mustard, sugar, salt, and pepper. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened Serve over hot tongue slices. Four to six servings.

Fireside Features Mr. Clean's Uncalled Four

MR. CLEAN and his wild aggregation of musicians, The Uncalled Four, will open at Jack McRae and Phil Maita's Fireside, San Mateo, for a limited engagement, Friday, September 8. Known throughout the Bay Area for his music and showmanship, Mr. Clean initially achieved success during a lengthy appearance at Forbidden City in the Hawaiian Islands, where he broke all attendance records. After returning to the Mainland, he appeared in several top niteries, including a recent smash "gig" at the Peppermint Tree in San Francisco. The wailing dance sounds he and his group produce are certain to keep the Fireside's dance floor in action. Rounding out the nightly entertainment will be an all-new and All-Girl Topless Revue. Action best describes the Fireside's nightly "doings," and it's continuous seven nights a week, from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m.

"GEARED FOR ACTION" best describes the scope of the Villa Hotel operation. Pointing to the several ways the hotel has geared itself to the business and tourist tempo of today, Steve "Dynamite" Norton, Director of Sales at the Villa Hotel, notes that few people realize they can get from the San Francisco International Airport to the Hotel without cost. Some major hotels do not provide such transfers without cost to the guest. Villa Hotel also provides car rentals from their own Hertz inventory. 24-hour Villa Hotel Coffee House operation makes room service available 'round-the-clock — It's geared for service to the air traveler . . . Mr. Norton points out that a large number of guests are traced from distant points.

LEE WARREN, whose Piccadilly is a Burlingame food and cocktail landmark, has the same thing in mind for his newest acquisition, The Annex, in Redwood City. Formerly the famous Willie's Alumni, the Annex has all the ingredients needed for instant success, including the right people running it. Warren has appointed two of the best known plankmen in the area to dispense cheer. "Mr. Chips" himself, Chip Turiello, who is almost a legendary restaurant figure, will be working days and handling the luncheon crowds, and John Schnell, who will blend the spirits and offer spirited conversation in the evenings. The luncheon menu will be an exact duplication of the Piccadilly, with selections ranging from hot entrees, seafoods, hot and cold sandwiches and salads. A big favorite at the Piccadilly . . . and one that is destined to be the same at the Annex, is Lee's Ruben Sandwich (corned beef, Swiss cheese and sauerkraut).

THE BUSTLING EL PATIO in Menlo Park is so busy on weekends that many Mexican food fanciers are finding it best to enjoy a leisurely "South of the border" style luncheon or dinner on a week day. Attractive Shelly Llewellyn, who owns this charming Mexican restaurant, along with her husband, Jim, also acts as luncheon hostess, and somehow always manages to find tables for everyone . . . Gourmets who like to dine out often will become "steadies" at Gold Street, the famous old-time saloon featuring a nightly New Year's Eve party at midnight, once they try the specialty of the house—Chateau Briand or Beef Bourguignon for only $3.50 . . . Dave and Gertrude Gold of Burlingame (he's vice president of Metro Parking Corp.) entertained Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Nitz of Chicago at a dinner party in the elegant Wellington Room at Phil Lehr's Steakery in downtown San Francisco.

THE UNION SQUARES, with vocalist Beverly Lane, who came direct from appearances in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Las Vegas, opened last night at Augie's on Third Avenue. Presenting a refreshingly new type of dinner show, the music makers are keeping with the "new look" image that Owners Phyllis and Augie Aprile have maintained since the restaurant's recent complete remodeling. Something else that's new at Augie's: "All the tacos you can eat" for just a quarter is served from 11 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights . . . For cuisine of extraordinary quality, Wilfried and Marion Blarer's Matterhorn restaurant, in Burlingame, specializes in Swiss-German culinary creations which are usually found in famed dining houses on the Continent.

Alexi's Zorba Dance Star Of Zorba The Greek

The entertainment line-up at Alexi's Zorba Supper Club, in Burlingame, reads like a "Who's Who" of Greece's top performers. Headlining the show with his own orchestra is John Sporos Stamatis, considered to be one of the finest Bouzouki players in the world. Also featured is sultry Eva Mayia, a voluptious vocalist and Oriental dancer, and the spontaneous, entirely natural dance creations of restaurant co-owner Alexi Zorba, famed dance star of the film, "Zorba The Greek."

Try Nick's For Breakfast

Everyone speaks of the varied attractions offered at Nick's in Pacifica, but did you know that one of the most pleasant ways to spend a Sunday morn is to enjoy breakfast on the coast? Many of Nick's regular Saturday night diners return for leisure Sunday breakfasts. Breakfast served from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., seven days a week.

☆

A tasty way to start any day is by having a breakfast of Smoked Salmon (Lox) and Eggs as served at Lou Romson's Brothers restaurant and delicatessen in downtown San Mateo. Unusual, true, but fortifying.

Black Angus "Family Affair"

For an "All you can eat" session any night of the week, it's the Black Angus Chuck Wagon for a mealtime "roundup." Carlo Fasolo, who revels in hosting large families, greeted a couple and their twelve children, who proved "it's cheaper to feed large appetites at the Black Angus Chuck Wagon than it is at home."

Mary Lou Francis "Back In Action"

Pert and Perky Mary Lou Francis is back on the Scotty Campbell's restaurant scene, after a far-too-short week's vacation at the family's Wisconsin resort. If the Wisconsin operation runs as smoothly as their popular Redwood City restaurant, it's a "year 'round" success for sure.

Rudolfo's Preems New Menu This Week

Art, Harry and George Alfinito, the jolly brothers three who operate Rudolfo's in Palo Alto, have introduced a superb new menu. It's half-Italian, half American, and everyone will be pleased by the selection. Club Sirloin at $1.95, a pound of New York Steak is $3.75 and Lobster and Steak is $4.50. Tasty Italian dishes include cannelloni, manicotti, green fettuccine and linguine con vogole (clam sauce). Dinners include al you wish of salad and garlic bread, with a full pitcher of wine.

Finocchio's Revue Features Jean Evol And Francis Blair

The "two old bags from Oakland" in the Finocchio revue of female impersonators combine a lifetime of vaudeville experience. Both Jean Evol and Francis Blair (one of the original "old bag" act) trod the boards of all the nation's major vaudeville circuits. Evol was a member of the famous old Will King revues at the Hippodrome and Casino, which drew people from the inner valleys for big weekends in the city.

Open Letter to the Public:

On the 20th of this month, Albert and Eva Schmitt closed a long and successful restaurant operation at the Miramar Hotel in Half Moon Bay. They have now moved to the world-famous Brookdale Lodge, just 12 miles north of Santa Cruz. Brookdale Lodge is a romantic hideaway in the breathtaking resort community of Brookdale, the redwood heart of the Santa Cruz Mountains, on Highway 9 between Felton and Boulder Creek.

Less than one hour from most Peninsula motels, facilities include: Child care service, cocktail lounge, 126 motel units, convention center for all size groups, wedding chapel, coffee shop, and a remarkable dining room with a live mountain brook actually running through it. A Continental menu with the emphasis on seafood. Specialty: Cioppino feed with dancing each Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. Similar to, but more exciting than, an Eastern Clambake. Consisting of Dungeness Crab served cracked and Cioppino style with salad, garlic bread, wine, and even a bib at $4.25 complete (all you wish to eat).

Serving breakfast, lunch, and dinner 7 days a week. All Major Credit Cards Accepted.

We hope to see you soon. Call for reservations: Area code (408) 338-6433.

Running Man Nabbed As S.F. Suspect

A suspected San Francisco burglar was apprehended by an alert Daly City police officer as he was running away from the scene of a reported burglary Monday night.

Officer G. Martin Lively was responding to a reported burglary at Union 76 station at Cayuga and Sickles streets on the edge of the Daly City limits when he spotted a man acting suspiciously in the area.

Officer Lively stopped George Hunter, 27, of 1423 Webster Street, San Francisco, and began questioning him concerning the incident.

When Lively was convinced he had a suspect in the alleged crime the officer turned Hunter over to San Francisco police.

Scoutmaster Nabs Two With Gun

A Boy Scout master performed a citizen's arrest on two men shooting sea gulls at Mori's Point in Pacifica Monday, police said.

Officers said Scoutmaster Kenneth Gammon was camping with a group of boys on the hill at Mori's Point when he observed Donald L. Colwell, 28, of 1065 Grand Avenue, South San Francisco, and John Vincent, 21, of Pacifica, shooting the gulls with shotguns.

Gammon arrested the men, then held them until Pacifica police arrived, and issued citations. Both are scheduled to appear in North County Municipal Court Sept. 18.

Youth Hit By Car, Injured

Robert Gilardoni, 16, 351 Commercial Avenue, South San Francisco, was admitted to Peninsula Hospital for injuries received this weekend when his car was struck from behind while he was stopped for a red light at Grand Avenue and Spruce Street.

He is reported in satisfactory condition.

Mother Led 5 to Safety

A San Bruno mother led her five young children to the safety of a neighbor's home, when she discovered her kitchen ablaze at 9:41 p.m.

San Bruno fireman said Mrs. Anne Carmody was taking a bath when "she heard a crackling noise" in the kitchen of her home at 483 Beech Avenue.

Running to the kitchen to investigate the noise, she found plastic curtains melting and portions of cabinets burning.

She then dashed to a bedroom, from which she led her children Kelly, 6, Mark, 5, Mathew, 3, John, 2, and Greg, 9 months — to a neighbor's home.

In the meantime, another neighbor Kurt Krueger of 480 Chesnut Avenue, using his garden hose, sprayed water into the kitchen to keep the fire from spreading.

When firemen arrived they found the entire Carmody home charged with smoke. They first checked all bedrooms to make certain there were no occupants, learning later the mother had led the youngstes to safety.

Fire officials said a portable oven was in use and possibly could have ignited grease, since it was beneath cabinets.

On the opposite drainboard was a can of paint thinner and firemen reasoned that fumes from the ca, in which there were two paint brushes, could have ignited, adding fuel to the fire.

The handles of the brushes were "badly scorched," as were portions of the cabinets, a fire department spokesman said.

Damage was estimated at $500.

Carnival In Bruno Sat.

A neighborhood carnival for benefit of muscular dystrophy victims will be held tomorrow at 2280 Oakmont Drive, San Bruno.

Debbie Waddell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Waddell, will be ringmaster, assisted by her brother, John, and Kerry and Patrick Lovett.

Carnivaltime is 11 a.m., with proceeds from all games and refreshments going to the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America. Last year over 16,970 such carnivals, staged by children, raised over $275,000 for the MDAA's research and patient service programs.

Ryan Looks Into Overcrossing Snag

Assemblyman, Leo J. Ryan is looking into delay of the construction of the Junipero Serra-Clay Street pedestrian overcrossing.

Earlier this year, Ryan had been told by Public Works Director John Erreca and District IV Engineer Alan S. Hart that construction would begin this summer. It is now disclosed that the overcrossing will not be completed until February of next year.

"Do we have to sacrifice one more child's life before that over pass is constructed?" Ryan asked in a letter to Assistant State Highway Engineer George A. Hill, who is in charge of planning." Three children have paid for that overcrossing with their lives, not to mention the bereavement of their parents and relatives.

In a letter to Assistant State Highway Engineer Hill, Ryan asked for an explanation as to why the overcrossing was not being built on schedule as proposed in Sacramento earlier this year. He said that as late as April 11, he had received a letter from District IV Engineer Hart saying that the Junipero-Serra-Clay Street pedestrian overcrossing would be built this summer.

Baseball Items . . .

(With the season ending abnormally soon for Giant fans this season, we herewith present, before interest completely wanes, a bevy of miscellaneous baseball tiems which have been cluttering our "in" file).

A couple of weeks ago we did an item on the trades which have turned out well for the Giants, and inadvertently omitted perhaps the most important one of them all — Cappy Peterson and Bob Priddy to Washington for Mike McCormick.

After a good start, Peterson has tailed off to a mediocre year, and Priddy has done little. McCormick, you know about. A cinch recipient of the Comeback of the Year award.

So every time you become nauseous thinking about where the Giants might have been with Cepeda, think of where they would have been without McCormick, or where Washington — which until recently was only a half dozen games out of first — might have been with him! (Don't forget, the American League has only four .300 hitters, the National League at least three times that many.)

★ ★ ★

TYPICAL of the Giants' frustration this year was that four game series with the Cardinals last month which knocked the Giants out of contention. Each team scored a series total of nine runs, and the Giants outhit the Cards in every game except one (and that was by a margin of only 5-4), yet St. Louis took three out of four. In total season play, going into that series, the Giants had scored as many runs as the Cards and had — and still have — a better team earned run average.

Which illustrates that there are certain things which even computers can't figure in working with totals only. Because closer examination would show that the Giants stand last in the National League in percentage of one-run games won.

The way the Giants lost that particular Cardinal series was not only typical, it was fitting.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: If it's legal, moral and proper for the United States government to subsidize the private National Rifle Association and its amateur sharpshooters, why wouldn't it be just as legal, moral, proper — and infinitely more meaningful — for the government to subsidize the United States Olympic team?

Sub-question of the week: Why do we always pick on people who know how to hurt you, like Karate experts and Riflemen? And please don't write informing us of our latent masochistic tendencies. That bit's been overdone. Something more exotic would be appreciated. But back to baseball. . . .

Cincinnati manager Dave Bristol fines his players $50 for every man they leave on third base with less than two outs. If Herman Franks did that, the Giants could finance Vietnam.

Just about every innovation imaginable has happened to baseball. Veeck's midget, integration, the lively ball, the lively bat, the trapper glove, expansion, the Astrodome, the Yankees in tenth place, and Charley Finley.

Only one remains.

WHO WILL BE the first umpire with guts enough to wear eyegasses on the field?

The way we see it, there's only one way to combat those insecure but pesty souls who bring trainsistors to ball games to listen to what they're watching: A special section walled off from the field so that they wouldn't feel obligated to watch. And, of course, wouldn't annoy those around them.

What many fans don't realize, when they boo the opposing pitcher who intentionally walks their hero, is that the intentional pass is seldom issued JUST because of fear of that particular batter.

There's almost always deeper strategy behind it. It's usually done to set up a double play or a force play. Often it's because the next hitter who may be generally as good a hitter as the man walked on purpose, swings, for instance, right handed instead of left-handed, and would tend to be easier for the right handed pitcher to get out. There are other, more subtle reasons better left to the strategists who get paid to think of them.

THE LONG-TERM injuries to stars such as Al Kaline and Frank Robinson this season developed an interesting dilemma.

It reads like this: Kaline, for instance, is out five weeks, during which time the Tigers somehow manage to stay in the pennant race, mainly because a retread like Lenny Green comes aong in Kaline's spot and gets hot.

Now Kaline's back and the Tigers know they're lucky they've stayed in the race without him, but figure they can't stay lucky much longer. But Kaline's rusty, and the only way to get him to where he was before the injury is to let him play.

Now comes the dillemma, and the irony. Do you pull out the hot Green, who you know can't last forever but who is winning for you now, and replace him with a guy who might actually hurt the team for a week, which could be long enough to knock them out of a close race far enough so that not even a hot Kaline would be able to get them back again.

In other words, the very guy who can win it for you can also lose it for you.

The answer probably is that yo do what Detroit manager Mayo Smith did. Put your star in and pray that class will tell.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK 2-A:

If a man has coached a professional sport — say like Joe Kuharich — and then returns to the collegiate level, why is it he is not considered to be "contaminating" the amateurs when if an athlete attempts to do the same thing he is banned from the college boys?

A ridiculous question, you ask? Maybe so, but that's only because it's a slightly ridiculous situation. Not that we adovcate washed up pro athletes being able to finish out their twi-light years with their alma mater while doing graduate work; but why not face the perplexity from the other angle by not allowing college coaches back innto the ranks once they've left?

It would make some top coaches think twice before playing musical chairs with their employers, and also assure a continuing high level of college coaching.

Held in Slaying

Two San Bruno men, one of whom is a former Hell's Angel, were arrested Thursday on Sonoma County warrants in connection with the bludgeon slaying of an 84-year-old man last Sunday at Santa Rosa.

The aged victim was said to have been beaten repeatedly with a blunt object and kicked in the abdomen. The only item missing from his house, police said, was his wallet, which was later found, bloody and empty in a parking lot in Guerneville.

Anthony J. Herrera, 27, of 180 San Luis Avenue, and Clifford Foster, 24, are charged with the robbery and murder of Arthur T. Kjellman, a retired sea captain.

Herrera is described by police as a former member of the Hell's Angels' motorcycle club with a police record dating back at least five years.

Sonoma County Deputy Sheriff William Barnett said the pair are accused of breaking into the elderly man's residence late Sunday night, then beating him to death after removing his wallet.

San Bruno Officers Hugh Frazer and Bob Timko arrested Herrera about 4:20 p.m. Thursday after spotting his automobile in the driveway at 180 San Luis Avenue.

A young Santa Rosa woman, Bonnie Gaitan, was also arrested at Herrera's residence. She is wanted in Sonoma County for investigation of welfare fraud, officers said.

Foster was arrested two hours later by South San Francisco police who spotted his car at a night club.

Herrera is a sometime merchant seaman and roofer, officers said. Foster did not list an occupation.

1300 Had An Eventful SSF Summer Session

Over 1300 youngsters recently completed the summer session of the South San Francisco summer school, with a variety of enrichment, acceleration and remedial makeup courses being completed.

A feature of this summer's program was the number of community related projects developed by the faculty. Many citizens came to the school to speak to students, offering experiences and views for consideration of the youngster.

Citizens visiting the campuses included personnel from the American Civil Liberties Union, Cailfornia Constitutional Revision Committee, labor and manufacturing organizations, officials from the city planning commission and city manager's office, Sheriff and police departments, the National Education Association, Cabot, Cabot and Forbes, and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Student groups took trips to Woolworth's Distribution Center, Volker Furniture Co., Municipal Court sessions, Stanford Medical Center, art expositions and the San Francisco Internatioal Airport.

A second feature, the Summer Art Show at Orange Avenue Public Library, was designed to represent a cross section of summer learning experiences by the students of both Alta Loma Junior High and South San Francisco High School.
